

Cambridge School Weekly Newsletter

Friday 12th July 2024

Dear Parent/Carer,

We are on the final lap and the summer break is nearly here, not that you would be able to tell from the terrible weather. This week we held our final transition event of the academic year and the whole school moved into their new classes with their new staff yesterday morning, including the Year 7s. It was a chance to meet new people, test their social and communication skills and build new relationships. There was a sense of anticipation and excitement around the school as experiences were shared and bonds were formed. The new Year 7s were especially excited to meet their peers and key staff.

We are hosting our annual Leavers' Prom this evening in the Hall and the school Hall has been decorated beautifully in gold and black. The aromas coming from the kitchen are tantalisingly mouth-watering. There will be plenty of pictures available in the End of Year Newsletter which will be published soon. Dancing shoes are being polished and frocks and suits are hanging in every classroom for our students to wear with pride as they celebrate the end of their time here at Cambridge. We will have fond memories of the Class of 2024 who have grown into fine young men and women, ready to embark on their journey into adulthood.

The school held the third and final Tender:RESET parental workshop on Wednesday 10th July on the topic of healthy online relationships which many parents attended in person and virtually. The levels of engagement were high and parent shared strategies in a safe and non-judgemental space. The collaborative and supportive nature of these workshops has been fantastic and we look forward to continuing work of this type next academic year.

Enjoy the weekend and look out for end of year reports coming soon via Parentmail.

Yours sincerely

Alan Campbell,
Head Teacher
